

A note on advertised posts in the Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology

We welcome applications for two posts in Sociology, one at lecturer level and the other at senior lecturer level. Please do note that the requirements as stated in the advertisement should be read as minimum requirements and that you are unlikely to be shortlisted if you do not meet these. In particular-

- We cannot consider applications without a completed doctorate degree.
- We would expect that at least half of your publications to be single-authored.
- Although peer-reviewed book chapters may be considered equivalent to peer-reviewed journal articles, we would still expect that a portion of your publications appear in accredited journals, and this is especially the case for the requirement of publication in international journals (1 minimum for lecturer, 2 minimum for senior lecturer).
- To count as a “Accredited Journals,” they should appear on established citation indexes or DHET lists.
- The cover letter is a requirement for the application and should draw attention to how you meet the requirements and recommendations.

Good luck with your applications!
